Klaussner Home Furnishings Expands its Trisha Yearwood Collections

(Asheboro, North Carolina – April 10th 2017)– Klaussner Home Furnishings continues to build on its popular Trisha Yearwood brand with the addition of a new collection of furnishings. Fittingly named “Coming Home” the latest designs are distinguished by timeless simplicity with hints of industrial influence, vintage finds and antiques. Chalk and wheat make up the color palette to provide classic warmth. As in all of Yearwood’s furnishings, attention to comfort is key.

The name of the new furniture line was inspired by a conversation with her husband. Discussing being on tour, Yearwood expressed her enjoyment of being on the road, but loved coming home and the name was born.

Along with beauty, quality and comfort, versatility and function are also vital ingredients in each creation. “It’s has to be beautiful, comfortable, good product and authentic,” said Yearwood.

This latest line joins Yearwood’s Music City Collection, her inaugural indoor line, an outdoor collection and leather collection, all of which have been enthusiastically received by furniture buyers.

“The line is casual and relaxed, but has a pulled together sophistication that creates a dynamic space, which today’s discerning buyer is seeking,” said Geoff Beaston, Sr. Vice President at Klaussner Home Furnishings.

The collaboration between Yearwood and Klaussner carries on a highly successful pairing. “I love working with Klaussner,” said Yearwood. “It’s a wonderful adventure, working with people you enjoy. I hope to work with them forever.”
